The screenshot displays the BI360 Composer interface, which is used for generating ad hoc reports from an ERP system's database. The interface is divided into several sections:

- Account String Selection: A tree view on the left shows various account categories and strings. The 'Account String' field is selected, and the 'Account Description' field is also visible.
- Report Generation: The main area shows a table of account strings and their corresponding balances for different periods. The table is titled 'Division Description' and includes columns for 'Account String', 'Account Description', 'Period Balance', and 'Totals'.
- Excel Export: The bottom section shows an Excel spreadsheet with the generated report data. The spreadsheet includes columns for 'Account String', 'Account Description', 'Period Balance', and 'Totals'.
